

GREETINGS FROM HONORS CAROLINA

Welcome to Carolina! All of us on the Honors Carolina team have been anticipating your arrival for many months, and we're so glad that you're now in Chapel Hill.

Over the next two days, you'll learn more about life at one of the world's great universities. This is a place where students and faculty are actively engaged in the work of invention, discovery, and artistic creativity. Our mission is nothing less than solving the world's great problems and improving the lives of our eight billion fellow inhabitants of this planet. Through Honors Carolina, we aim to involve you in that endeavor from day one.

A global perspective is an essential element of a 21st-century education, and that's why we also have developed a number of exceptional Honors Carolina study abroad programs. At Orientation, we'll introduce you to exciting internship opportunities in Cape Town, London, and Washington D.C., and to our changing roster of Burch Field Research Seminars around the globe. We hope that we'll soon see you performing in an opera hall in Florence, exploring food systems at a sustainability farm in Thailand, training for global risk analysis at NATO headquarters in Brussels, or on another equally exhilarating Burch adventure.

Most important of all, your two days of orientation will provide an opportunity to get to know one another and to begin building a sense of community that will soon grow to include current students, faculty, and alumni. The relationships you establish through Honors Carolina will last a lifetime.

Again, it's a privilege to welcome you into the Carolina family.

With all best wishes,

James Leloudis
Professor of History
Peter T. Grauer Associate Dean for Honors Carolina
